Setting/establishing the fiction. Give children the opportunity for free role play to set context within their understanding. Give the company a successful history. 	The director of The Living History Company received an award for the excellent Victorian exhibition our company produced last year in the City Hall in York. Thousands of school children from all over Yorkshire came to see the exhibition. Do you remember on how hard we worked making those interactive exhibitions?	Map of England Victorian artefacts. http://www.victorians.org.uk/ Living history logo
	We are going to pretend we are school children from Yorkshire going to the City Hall. Let's look round the exhibition and see what was there.
	What town is our company headquarters in - address - building? As you walk into the reception there is a framed photograph of the MD receiving the award from the Mayor of York. In pairs make that photograph - bring to life.
	Let's walk into The Living History Company what other departments are there, ask a scribe to record on the board. What jobs are people doing?

	What department do you work in? Go to that department and get to work - free time for role play. Freeze and show types of work in action. Either: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Draw a plan of the offices • Design a new logo • Make something else for the company 	Paper - various Pens -various
Defining the tasks	Letter/ or visitor from Ipswich Museum - wanting interactive exhibition for school children. Purpose to educate in a hands-on fun way. What ideas do we have for the exhibits?	Letter from Ipswich Museum
	In departments decide on the exhibit - produce a design brief for approval from the Co-ordination Team (Ms. Howe?) Share ideas with the company. These exhibits could go on to be made at a later date.	Laptops
Possible future tasks.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Create flyers/posters to send to schools promoting the exhibition. • Design a web page for the company. 	Paper ICT suite
