

Does The Curriculum Have A Future?

Friday 3rd February 2012

9:25am – 3:00pm

Girton College Cambridge CB3 0JG

Target audience: Primary, Secondary & Special School Headteachers, SMT's & Practitioners with responsibility for curriculum development

Bookings are now being taken for what promises to be an inspirational day which will afford Headteachers and SLT colleagues time to consider forthcoming curriculum challenges and implications for planning for the future.

Conference Aims:

- To provide an opportunity to learn of the progress being made as the review continues its work to determine the design and content of the new National Curriculum
- To gain a sense of the implementation challenges and transitional issues which might arise as a consequence of the changes.
- To consider practical models for teaching and learning

Cost: £100 per delegate (includes buffet lunch and refreshments)

Guest speakers:

Mary James – Member of the National Curriculum Review Expert Panel.

Mike Davies – Retired Headteacher, International consultant and past member of the Building Schools for the Future architectural team.

Luke Abbott – Director of Mantle of the Expert.com

Programme

9:00	Registration & Refreshments
9:25	Welcome
9:30	National Curriculum and School Curriculum: difficulties, confusions and understanding of demarcation between them Mary James, Member of the National Curriculum Review Expert Panel
10:30	Questions
10:40	Break & refreshments
11:00	Practical models for learning and teaching Mike Davies & Luke Abbott
1.00	Lunch
1.45	Possibilities for the future of secondary schooling: implications for primary? Mike Davies
2.45	Questions
3:00	Close

Interested:

To book a place ring CAS on 01480 376320 or e-mail CAS@cambridgeshire.gov.uk, quoting course code 21470

Note: Closing date for bookings, Wednesday 18th January